The Jordan Schnitzer Museum of Art invites submissions for the 6th annual NewArt Northwest Kids exhibition. Teachers of public, private, and home school students in grades K–12 may submit work for consideration in this show of student art.

About the exhibition
This year’s theme, Language Arts, celebrates the many connections between visual art and text—illustrated stories, illuminated letters, comics, typographic design, Dada-inspired collage, concrete poetry, alphabet books, and much more.

NewArt Northwest Kids: Language Arts will be on view from February 26 to May 19, 2013. Student artists will be honored at an exhibition reception.

How to participate
Teachers are asked to select a limited number of student works to submit—one entry per student, please. Museum staff will select a maximum of fifty pieces for the show. All entrants will receive a free family guest pass to the Jordan Schnitzer Museum of Art.

Submissions must adhere to the following guidelines:
- Artwork must have been created within the past year.
- Two-dimensional work only, unmatted and unframed.
- Maximum size: 12 inches x 16 inches.
- Submissions must include a completed entry form and be received by January 25, 2013.
- Submitted works must be picked up from the museum in person by June 21, 2013; student artwork will not be returned by mail. Unclaimed artwork will become property of the museum.

The Jordan Schnitzer Museum of Art reserves the right to reproduce, publish, and exhibit any selected entry.

Information: Contact the Tour Coordinator at (541) 346-0910 or jsmatour@uoregon.edu.

NANW Kids is made possible through support from the Cheryl and Allyn Ford Educational Outreach Endowment and an anonymous donor.
