Entry form: A fully completed form must be attached to submitted artwork. Artwork will be automatically disqualified if the form is not fully completed. May be photocopied. Must be received by Friday, January 29, 2021.

Submissions must adhere to the following guidelines:
- Artwork must be submitted digitally.
- Artwork must have been created within the past year.
- Two-dimensional work only; unmatted and unframed.
- Maximum size: 12 inches x 16 inches.
- Submissions must include a fully completed entry form and be received by January 29, 2021.
- Submitted works must be picked up from the museum in person by October 30, 2021; student artwork will not be returned by mail. Unclaimed artwork will become the property of the museum.
- The Jordan Schnitzer Museum of Art reserves the right to reproduce, publish, and exhibit any selected entry.

How to participate
We invite K-12 students from across the state to reflect on the theme and submit a work of art digitally for consideration in our annual juried art exhibition. Teachers and parents are asked to select a limited number of student works to submit—one entry per student. Museum staff will select a maximum of fifty pieces for the show. Additional works may be shown in a JSMA exhibition at the airport concurrent or following this exhibition.

About the exhibition
This year’s theme, Art, Hope and Resilience, encourages students to share their own stories through words and images. This year of 2020 has been one of turmoil, illness, and unrest across the globe. Artists have used this time to document and express the pain, suffering and hardships we have witnessed this year due to the COVID 19 pandemic, racism and violence, and fires displacing many of our fellow Oregonians. Artwork can be created with a variety of media, including painting, prints, digital art, illustration, and collage. Teachers may connect the theme to Common Core subject areas of history, social studies, science, and language arts. See http://jsma.uoregon.edu/ for more activity ideas responding to the theme.

The NewArt Northwest Kids exhibition will be on view
March 20 - June 14, 2021.
